Which law firms do America's top companies turn to first to handle their most significant legal matters? ALM, the nation's leading legal journalism and information company, asked that question in a survey sent to the general counsel at each of the 500 largest U.S. companies. Their responses form the basis for this Guide to Go-To Law Firms.

KELLEY DRYE & WARREN LLP

Kelley Drye & Warren LLP, an international firm of nearly 400 lawyers, has been prominent since 1836. The firm serves corporations, trade associations, nonprofits, and government entities worldwide from its U.S. offices in New York, Virginia, Illinois, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Washington, D.C.; a European office in Brussels; and an affiliate office in Mumbai.

The firm offers exceptional depth in more than 30 practice areas. Among the firm's strengths are its 150-lawyer litigation practice; a labor practice group that has decades of success representing employers both in and out of the courtroom; a preeminent advertising law group with impressive litigation strength and regulatory expertise; and an antitrust group of counselors and litigators who clear complex transactions at national and international competition authorities and handle major cases in courts around the world.

Firm Chairman John Callagy notes that "Kelley Drye is proud to be a Go-To Law Firm for clients that include industry leaders such as Cablevision, Dell, and Alcatel-Lucent. Whenever clients recognize Kelley Drye's commitment to their success, in surveys like this and day-to-day as they entrust us with important matters, it's a source of great pride for us."
